FARM TABLE SAYS:

Deep-ripping treatments were applied to seven trial sites with a compacted subsurface in the current study.

What is the problem?

This study aim was to investigate the impact of subsurface compaction, acidity, and/or subsoil sodicity or salinity on canola yields in replicated on-farm experiments undertaken between 2007 and 2009.

What did the research involve?

At the commencement of the project, farmers' paddocks in areas of southern NSW which either had been
